Ladies Lack Tournaments

By JIM TAYLOR

Singles and doubles competition tomorrow at Gibson's Bowladrome will mark the end of the most successful women's tenpin tournament ever held in this area, and once again the thought occurs that it's about time the ladies were given a chance to branch out.

There are more bowlers in the Victoria branch of the Women's International Bowling Congress than ever before, and leagues all over the province are growing just as fast. Yet there is no organized tournament setup for the better bowlers.

This tournament now in progress is a handicap affair. There is no zone playoff as the men have, and so no real way of picking the best bowlers in the area. Why not?

Why is there no Canadian women's tenpin championship tournament, or at least a competition on the provincial level? The Brunswick-Balke people willingly foot the bill for the Men's competition from the provincial level on, and could probably be pursuaded to do the same for the women.

It would take work, but the organization is there in the WIBC. Once set in motion, such a plan would undoubtedly be well received by leagues in other cities.

First step would be a city zone final, a non-handicap competition that would settle the question of the city's best representatives. From there it would be a logical move to provincial playdowns, and perhaps eventually a Dominion roll-off.

It would be worth the WIBC's while to try.

Women's Event Sunday

Irene Celius and Joan White will defend their doubles crowns in tomorrow's bowling. Marge Beaney, who won both the singles and all-events crowns last year, is not competing.

Tomorrow's draw and starting times appear below.

Dave Allan, rolling in the major league at Capital City Bowling Alley, set a torrid pace for fivepinners this week with a 976 series, including games of 356 and 329. Allan blew the 10th frame in his high game, thereby missing out on his 1,000 series.

B. Burrows, 703, and D. Jenkins, 713, were high fivepinners at Gibson's Bowladrome, while Wes Vogler set the pace at Strathcona Bowling Alleys with 759 (310).

Things were quiet on the tenpin front, with only two 600 series rolled. Both came at Strathcona, where Jack Fletcher had 617 (221, 205) and Art Manson rolled 607 (205, 259). Other high scorers were Harold Paulding, 583 (246), Ron Wilson, 570 (209), and Gordie Rawnsley, 566.

CALGARY (CP) — Alberta won the Canadian high school curling championships Friday night with a comeback 8-6 victory over New Brunswick.

The win averted a five-way tie for first place that would have existed had New Brunswick upset Johnny Trout's Edmonton rink.

Trout counted one in the last end after New Brunswick skip Raymond MacNamara's last shot was wide on an attempted takeout of an open Alberta rock.

It was Alberta's first championship since the Dominion high school finals began 12 years ago. The Edmonton foursome was a dark horse entry in the 11-rink tournament, rated behind Manitoba and defending champion Northern Ontario.

But Alberta won its first five games with considerable ease and ended with an 8-2 record, losing only to Quebec and Ontario.

In other final round games played before 4,000 fans at the Calgary Corral, Northern Ontario downed Ontario 9-4, Prince Edward Island defeated Newfoundland 13-5, Saskatchewan defeated Manitoba 7-5 and Quebec downed Nova Scotia 12-7.

New Brunswick jumped into an early lead against Alberta with singles in the first and second. Alberta came back with two in the second. They exchanged singles during the next four rounds but New Brunswick posted a big two in the seventh.

The break came in the ninth when Alberta built a full house and with last rock posted three. They added the insurance rock in the 10th.

Scorekeeper's 'Goof' Costs Bathgate Point

MONTREAL — Andy Bathgate, in the middle of a battle to retain his lead in the National Hockey League scoring race, had a point taken away from him yesterday—a point that could conceivably be worth $1,000.

Bill Gadsby, New York Ranger defenceman, drew an assist on a goal by Red Sullivan in a game against Boston Feb. 11. However the scorekeeper inadvertently placed Bathgate's name in the assist column instead of Gadsby's.

When the scoresheet arrived at NHL headquarters a week later, Bathgate was given the point, which boosted him out of a three-way tie for first place. Yesterday the error was rectified, and the assist recredited to Gadsby.

As a result, Bathgate leads the league by only a single point with 30 goals and 35 assists. Ed Litzenberger of Chicago and Dickie Moore and Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal have 64 points to tie for second place in the run for the scoring trophy and the $1,000 cheque that goes with it.

Leaders follow:

	G	A	Pts
Bathgate, New York	30	36	65
Moore, Montreal	31	33	64
Litzenberger, Chicago	28	36	64
Geoffrion, Montreal	21	43	64
